The JetQuik Team of Bill Minkoff and Mark Stear joined Ernie Edwards VP of Sales and Marketing, Embraer Executive Jets for an old fashioned barbeque just steps from the flight line at Oshkosh 2009. The cookout highlighted a two day visit to the EAA event and a chance for JetQuik to visit with Phenom 100 delivery customers as well as Embraer Phenom 100 owners. Belle of the Ball was Mystic Lady, Phenom 100 serial number 6. Embraer customers were upbeat concerning this year's event proud that they had chosen the best light jet available today. Many reported that they would be placing their aircraft into charter with several reporting that their Phenoms would be used exclusively as Part 135 charter aircraft. Hugh McSharry, Phenom 100 investor and first time Oshkosh attendee reported that he was "gratified that the (performance) numbers and low operating cost of the Phenom 100 exceeded the predictions of Embraer." McSharry added, "customers are going to be delighted with their choice of the Phenom for charter." McSharry's owner group has chosen JetQuik for delivery and management of their new Phenom 100.
